OUR PRODUCTS & SERVICES

Day old chicks

The "day-old chick" (DOC) is the newly-hatched chick (Gallus gallus).

Chicken

Chickens are mainly grown for eggs & meat. Similarly, they are classified as egg-type chicken & meat-type chickens.

Sonali chicken

Sonali Feed stands as our primary product. The Sonali chicken is a cross-breed of Rhode Island Red cocks (shown here) and Fayoumi hens.

Sonali feed

The quality of the sonali chicken products depends considerably upon the quality of the feed served to the chicks at the shed during the breeding and growth process.

OUR PROCESS

Our industry has its stages vertically integrated for greater efficiency and higher product quality. The sonali chicken production process begins with the grandparent breeder flocks. The breeder flocks are raised till maturity in grandparent growing and laying farms where fertile eggs are produced.

Pullets hatch from the fertile eggs, and they are sent to the hatcheries. Shortly after 21 days, when the eggs hatch, the day-old chicks are sold to customers owning broiler farms. There, the farmers care for and raise the chicks according to our company's standards, guidelines and process for a better growth of the chicks.

QUALITY MANAGEMENT

Our industry undertakes the hygiene audits of sonali sheds and hatcheries to ensure better housing conditions, and check in all sorts of microbial growths for a disease-free environment leading to healthy and quality assured chicken products.

TESTS

We do various physical observations here, based on taste, smell, touch to predict the unusual or degradation of the chicks and eggs at early stages of the raw materials itself.

Our raw materials as well as finished products undergo several chemical tests to check for the quality, hygiene and adulteration

Director's statement

ASRAFUL HOQUE

Over half a decade, we have been successful in overcoming several challenges and shortcomings everyday, immensely due to the tremendous amount of hard work each and every member of 'ICF' has put to push through all sorts of odds and weaknesses of the firm. Our principle of ' WE BEFORE I' has always aided us to establish a fault proof and strong base of the firm and hold on to the trust of the customers and the liabilities.

Here at ICF, we have accepted that Change is inevitable and hence implementation of changes in technology and robust machinery shall contribute to the betterment of the business in all spheres. We hope that in the coming days too, ICF shall stand strong holding the trust of the customers and widening its business at large.
